Workstations that motivate people in all office environments – from mauser of course.

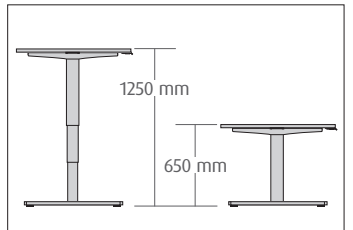

Flexible

levero
Multitasking made easy.

levero, the stand/sit workstation.

Nowadays, offices are not just simply workplaces, but also meeting and creative rooms. Therefore, it is a great advantage to have a flexible and dynamic piece of furniture. Whether it serves as a computer workplace or meeting point, with its two quiet electric motors and height adjustment options, levero can be used for various purposes. Furthermore, it contributes to better working conditions, as it encourages people to change working positions. In addition, it helps them stay physically fit.

With its individual height adjustment options and wide range of accessories, levero offers the highest degree of flexibility and is up to any task. It also enjoys longevity and durability, thanks to Mauser's high quality standard.

Electromotive telescopic height adjustment. Continuous, for stand/sit workstations. For working heights ranging from 650–1250 mm.

Levelling glides. To compensate uneven floors.

CPU bracket mounted inside.

Drop-down cable duct. Conceals bundles of cables.

Control element with display and four savable positions.

Functional cable grommet.

Attractive cable grommet. Keeps things tidy.

Modern netbox. Fast plug-in connections for "nomads".
